Introduction

The Hong Kong Construction Industry Trade Testing Centre (HKCITTC) has been providing trade tests for the industry since the 1990s. At present, more than 150 trade tests are well-developed and available. The HKCITTC is dedicated to providing candidate-oriented service in pursuit of excellence, fairness, credibility and efficiency. With the implementation of the "Designated Workers for Designated Skills" provision in 2017, the number of tested candidates recorded in the same year reached 27,000, signifying a high demand for trade tests in the industry.

Trade Testing Service

The HKCITTC provides two categories of tests:

Civil and Building Construction Trade Tests

Construction-related Electrical and Mechanical Trade Tests

The HKCITTC establishes two levels of trade tests for most trades: Trade Test for skilled workers and Intermediate Trade Test for semi-skilled workers. The assessment generally includes written and practical tests. The content of such tests is finalized after consultation with practitioners in the relevant industry.

The written test evaluates frontline workers' knowledge of the respective trade, construction safety knowledge, codes of practice and conduct, professional ethics, etc. Candidate's performance in practical test is assessed based on the following criteria:

Assessment Criteria

Understanding of drawings and specification

Preparation works before commencemen of test

Working procedures, accuracy, quality and progress (

Proper handling and use of

Proper use of tools and equipment

Safety precautions

Housekeeping after completion of test

The HKCITTC provides certification tests for machineries and crane operation for operators of builder's lifts and Suspended Working Platforms at construction sites as well as Trade Test for Grade A Electrical Work with the qualification of which one can register as an Electrical Worker.

Works and Achievements of Trade Tests

Offer mobile application "Trade Test App" (TTOA) for trade test application, with over 10,000 users since its launch. Publish video clips
